

Nii Amon Dsane

6 October 2026

Hiring Team
Moniepoint Group

Dear Hiring Team,

Moniepoint has the reach to make rewards part of how millions of customers experience the company, not only a cashback feature. Building that platform needs more than technical delivery. It needs product judgment, customer understanding and an engineering organisation that can learn quickly while protecting the reliability of a financial product. I have led that combination across consumer, marketplace, media and fintech businesses.

At Bridge, I set the product and technology strategy for an API-driven, consumer-first fintech business. I rebuilt the team and led delivery of two consumer apps, a merchant portal and APIs for payments, remittances, wallets and currency swaps. I selected the mobile and web platforms, designed the microservices architecture and built the product roadmap and organisation around it.

At Peach, I led Product, Engineering and IT for Kenya's leading managed used-car marketplace. I worked with the executive team to define product strategy, then led delivery of the customer web application and the operating tools behind vehicle intake and assessment.

My consumer-product experience started earlier. At Radio Africa, I led a 12-person digital-product team and architected a Kotlin-based music-streaming service, its content-ingestion pipeline and the mobile-money billing service behind it. At Rancard, I built and supported live messaging systems, including multi-country SMS voting for West African Idols.

For the past two years, I have also made language models part of how I research, define and deliver products. I use them where interpretation or generation can improve customer understanding and product workflows, and conventional software where rules, reliability and cost control matter.

I bring 20 years in software, 10+ years of production Java, Kotlin experience and 10+ years hiring and managing Engineering Managers. For Rewards, I would start by making the current cashback experience reliable and measurable, then build the product units, technical foundations and operating cadence needed to expand into retention, engagement and personalisation.

I would welcome a discussion about the product Moniepoint wants Rewards to become and the organisation needed to deliver it.

Sincerely,
Nii Amon Dsane